CONCERNS OF TODAY'S STUDENTS

Alumnus Tells Seniors:

"Yours Is the Skeptical Generation"

(An alumnus speaking at the senior banquet in May related some of the concerns of his "silent" generation and described a realistic picture of what it really is like in the outside world. Printed in part is his talk which serves as a basis for the succeeding pages where five Juniata students tell some of the concerns of today's students).

It's a real pleasure to be back at my dear alma mater, The Brethren Normal Institute of Technology. I've been following with interest your discussion about the future of Division I and II. Occasionally I get letters from fellow graduates who are alarmed lest the English department go the way of home economics. But then, I recall the days not so long ago when I was a student here. The great rallying cry of Division I was that we must build a new, modern library or else our diplomas would not be worth the sheepskin they were printed on. So the College built a sumptuous new library, remodeled the music department, established a languages lab and threw in an art gallery to boot. They even transferred Dr. Crosby and his fine associates to Division I. But they made one grave error. They also built something for Division III. And so the sound and the fury on this side of the street was abated only briefly. But then, as I recall, you could always count on Divisions I and II to be at least moderately vociferous on just about any topic.

Note that I said moderately. Compared with your student generation, ours was relatively quiet. We were supposedly the silent generation, with little to say about anything. In fact, in 1956 when a group of campus democrats greeted Richard Nixon with a few banners at the train station, the event made Life magazine. Student protests in this country were relatively rare then. Today, eight years later, that piddling little anti-Nixon demonstration would go completely unnoticed.

Oh, we had our issues on campus—what to name the skating pond—what should happen to a student who had had two beers at Kelly's—whether there should be a drinking fountain in the library. Our sites seldom got past the edge of the campus. Perhaps that is why so many of us alumni were so astounded to read about Juniata students' and professors' participation in the racial demonstrations. We would never have thought of doing such a thing, and I must confess that I still can't see any point in it. But let's face it. Yours is a different generation, even though we are only eight years apart.

Will this make a difference now that you are leaving college to take up a more normal way of life? In the long run, probably yes. While I can't really forecast what will happen, your attitudes may not manifest themselves immediately. For the world beyond Huntingdon is moving at so fast a pace that it will take all you've got for a while just to hold your own in the tide. And when the pressure's on, when the pace is hectic, you tend to ease up on your ax-grinding and concentrate on holding your job, your home, your wife and your sanity.

There are times, when we all might wish we were back in the ivy-twined towers of colleges, protected from the schizophrenia of life—back here where the rules are simple and the principles unyielded . . . Some young people never muster courage enough to enter the mainstream of life. Rather, they stay in school, earning degree upon degree, rather than face the complexities beyond . . . Don't get me wrong. Your unnatural four years in college is something of inestimable value. Unless you go on for an advanced degree, you will never again have the opportunity to stop the world and get off. It has been an opportunity to fortify yourself not only with knowledge, but also with values, principles, traditions and attitudes. You will not have much opportunity to give these due attention once you enter the work-a-day world.

You may have said that education courses have not really prepared you to be a teacher, that a major in English hasn't prepared you to do anything . . . Juniata did not teach me how to be a reporter. It took me months to learn how to write the simplest story about a PTA meeting.

But fortunately, Juniata did in a sense prepare me to be an executive editor. I received from Juniata, as all of you have, those intangibles that prepare us to face the world and succeed. This is true even though you'll seldom have time to stop and think about it.

They say that one thing you'll have in the outside world is leisure. Everyone, is going to have more and more time on his hands, and we're all going to wonder what we'll ever do with all the spare time we'll have. Don't count on it. I don't have any more leisure. The publisher doesn't have any more leisure. The reporters who are earning their pay don't have any more leisure. And if you're worth your salt, you aren't going to have very much leisure either . . . not if you want to be a real asset to your company and your community. You'll be working extra hours; going to PTA, planning and protest meetings; taking post-graduate courses, raising children, digging dandelions—it sounds like a caricature, but it's all too true.

I am told that, as student generations go, yours is the skeptical generation . . . that you take nothing for granted, that you question everything. Perhaps it is unfortunate that you have to be so un-trusting, but, on the other hand, perhaps you are better prepared to face the outside world. In journalism, this is standard advice to young reporters: never be cynical but always be skeptical. That's not bad advice for anyone so long as you can keep your skepticism from turning into cynicism. They say that you've found it hard to find anything in which you can put your trust. Well, it doesn't get much better on the outside. If you're a naive, trusting soul, you may soon kick the habit. Whom can you trust today? The mayor will call me and tell me one thing, and five minutes later I'll get a call from a councilman who asserts that the mayor just told him the opposite. Whom can you trust today? . . . During the presidential election campaign, many people said you couldn't trust Barry Goldwater—that he would escalate the war in Viet Nam.

But it's not limited to politicians. How sad it is to read in the paper that a fine, upstanding citizen has been caught shop-lifting, that a doctor has cheated on his income tax, that a lawyer has bilked his client. Sooner or later we discover that some of the big people in town have tarnished backgrounds.

In a few short weeks you are going to leave your sheltered ivory tower. You can't stay here any longer. There's no escape from the world. So what are you going to do about it?

Let's be practical. There's not much you're going to be able to do, at least at first. Yet, hang on to your idealism as long as you can. You'll be hurt, yes, but you can't go through life as a cynic. That would be tragic. Our attitude has much to do with saving our sanity and our sense of values in this trying time. For maintain them we must. And we must have faith in something. But what?

You've probably been reading about the controversy over wire-tapping. Perhaps you've heard the suggestion that the police be allowed to use wire-tapping if they first get permission from the courts. But then somebody says, well, we don't trust the courts. If we can't trust even our judges, things must be pretty bad. But perhaps through the process of elimination we will discover that if we cannot ultimately trust even our fellow man, that leaves us God. I'm suggesting that if we start out with this conviction, our relationship with our fellow men will be so much better, and we won't go to pieces when somebody lets us down. And it's going to happen.

Yet, I'm one of those incurable optimists. I think you have to be to get through. And it helps to have a sense of humor, too, plus a determination not to become enmired by it all. I'll never forget a bit of advice I received just before I was awarded my master's degree at Columbia. Columbia's graduate school of journalism has been most successful in combining idealism with the hard-headedness of the newspaper business. The day before the class was to be graduated, we were all herded into a room. No guests were allowed in, and only the deans and two or three top-ranking faculty members were present. In essence, this is what they said.

There are things in the newspaper business that aren't what they should be, and it's not going to take you long to find that out. You're going to want to rebel—to demand change immediately. Fight that urge. Rather, stick with it. Do the best you can under the system. Maintain your ideals. Before long the opportunity will arise for you to do something about it. And you will be in a better position to do something about it. Then act.

And what my good deans and professors advised me, I would advise you. Many things are wrong in the world. But—you're not going to change the world overnight. Already I've seen young people fresh out of college try to overthrow the system. They've all failed. But if it is unwise to stage a rebellion the first week out of college, it is downright immoral to surrender ultimately to the system.

Rather, keep plugging. Do the best you can under the circumstances. Maintain your ideals, and, when the time is right—act.

Students Speak Out:

"Genuine Interest in a Useful Education"

By THOMAS D. SNYDER '66
Co-captain, '65 football team

Upon considering the question of what concerns today's Juniata students have, one is able to make the observation that students do not limit their interests to purely academic and campus affairs. Indeed, there appears to be much consideration and effort put toward national and world affairs.

First let us look at the concern of students with national and international affairs. In the former area we can see its manifestation in the civil rights movement. Obviously, there is a degree of genuine concern in this area. We need only to look at the trip to Selma, Ala., the organization of S. C. O. R. E. on campus, and the student involvement with related groups in the community. Perhaps not quite as vociferous, but certainly just as important (especially to the male students), is the concern with world affairs especially the war in Southeast Asia. This to a large degree is precipitated by the proximity of students' involvement in the conflict due to the draft problem. But there is also a certain amount of sincere concern arising from the moral implications of the situation.

Another major area of concern of the students is that of campus affairs. For example there is the interest or, in some instances, the lack of interest in student government. On the whole it can be noted that the majority of the students find this aspect of campus life to be unimportant, as is implied by the small percentage of students voting in elections. However, those who do participate in the Student Senate seem to be a dedicated lot and are apparently truly interested in their positions and carrying out their functions.

Also in the area of campus affairs is the students' concern with their social life. This seems to be an important aspect for many students and to a large degree they have tried to remedy what they feel is a rather deficient part of campus life. One example proves this point—the opening of the student coffee house.

Finally and most importantly we come to the students' concern in the area of education. Here it can be said that unfortunately there is not as great a concern as there might be. Many faculty members have expressed this idea. They insist that students no longer enjoy learning and that they merely go through the motions of absorbing knowledge. That such a condition is unfortunate there can be no doubt. However, to say that it is the general attitude of all students to be unconcerned with their education is also unfortunate. For there really is a definite interest on the part of many students in educational process. Students voice opinion on the curriculum, student faculty relationships, the manner in which courses are conducted, all of which tend to imply a real concern for academic affairs.

Furthermore, the fine academic standing of Juniata attests to the fact that students are genuinely interested in a good and useful education. Juniata today continues to be one of the better liberal arts colleges in the nation. One of the many reasons for this fact is that her students continue to be concerned with their education.

Thus, Juniata's students are concerned with a great many issues—on and off campus—and in most cases deal with them intelligently.

By CHRISTINE J. BAILEY '67
President, Classics Club

Before coming to Juniata I was impressed by everyone's warning, "It's rough. You'll have to study!" Juniata is, among other things, an academic community where students come to study and have to study in order to stay here. In my three years here I have felt developing to greater importance a student concern for more depth in courses, competency of professors, and quality of the liberal education—in addition to making the grades.

In my experience as one of the few students in the small but active classics department, I have seen the concerns of my fellow students through my own. As a freshman I studied because everyone had told me college was difficult and I would fail if I didn't. As a sophomore I studied because the courses were hard and I had to study merely to survive. As a junior I studied because I could see my education taking shape. Required courses were being improved; new, exciting courses were being offered. And students concerned for their education were key influences in these changes. The Senate, rather than being organizers of social life and discussing generalities, worked on concrete problems of education and actually presented a controversial proposal to the faculty. Feeling the competition within the specific confines of Juniata, as well as in the world of college students of the United States, Juniata students are concerned in a very real

On a more specific level, not necessarily concerned with actual course work, we can cite the Classics Club on campus. This small club was organized several years ago when a group of students interested in the classics as an activity apart from their course of study held meetings of an academic rather than a social nature. Since then, the group has met six times a year to hear speakers, read plays, present their own topics of interest to the members, and generally to learn more about the cultures of Greece and Rome. Kept alive by the interest of the faculty adviser and the closely-working student membership, this club—like other academic clubs on campus—is an area where students, most of whom are concentrating in other fields, can become better informed and create for themselves a part of the liberal education the college offers.

Juniata students, like most American students, have become aggressive; they go for what they want. Last year we worked to improve social life; next year we will concentrate on academic concerns. The students have come alive and will be heard because they have developed an active concern for their education.

"Current Trend Toward Action and Response"

By PATRICIA A. REBER '68
'66 Editor, The Juniatian

It's 5:30 p. m. and hardly a stir in the newspaper office. No clattering typewriter disturbs the calm. However, the tell-tale traces of the busy afternoon are left. And like a punctuation mark at the end of a sentence, 5:30 p. m. is really not the end, but rather a small pause in the activity and flurry that unravels with each week's campus events.

In the course of a week, we editors observe a full-fledged, diversified parade of fact, opinion, complaining and campaigning—you name it; we hear and see it. The process of identifying events with issues is the continuous job of the newspaper staff—and a job of keeping the college community up to date with itself.

In this process we have a vantage point. We hear profs who, during their coffee break, wander into the newsroom to let off steam on a pet peeve or express concern about a recent issue. We hear the angered student who voices his dissatisfaction with the dining hall meals or with a new grading policy. Far from being controlled by the administration—as some students speculate in criticizing the paper—we operate independently.

Basic trends, then, are always under our microscopes. Happily, we have been involved in one of the most noticeable of these trends—a revived interest in student communications. The radio station, WJC, was the object of much planning and investment this past semester. Defunct and quiet for some time, WJC was restored to working order by concerned students and has made a great contribution to campus communications.

The newspaper also has revived more interest, most noticeably from its wider coverage and more lively appearance. But the greatest rejuvenation has come from the reporters who have demonstrated a heretofore rather latent ability and willingness to ferret out issues through the interview, through research, through interpretation.

The issues of social and educational concern that appeared throughout the year have reflected an activeness of students that counteracts any reports of apathy. Students were charged with indifference when the voting for senate offices failed to reach a majority, yet they bounced back the next week in the chair elections and recorded the highest percentage of voting cast in the history of senate elections. Indicative of a sensitivity on the part of the student body, the response (through Juniatian stories and personally) exemplifies the current trend—toward concern and response—that can hardly be called apathy.

Completion and dedication of the $3 million science center triggered heated discussion on the humanities versus natural sciences issues. Emerging from the discussions was one disturbing question: Does the Juniata student gain a true liberal arts education, or is this attainment possible only for the science major?

Clearly defined sides did not belong to this debate; furthermore this could not truly be described as a battle between the humanities and the natural sciences. Rather it was the expression of student concern for the character of education offered by the college.

Ever present this year have been two trends which may seem to be inconsistent with the enthusiasm herein described. These are manifested (1) in the fact that competition for leadership posts in student activities is not very intense, and (2) in the fact that one small group seems to spearhead discussion of most of the issues on campus.

The first of these manifestations can be explained by academic pressures. Students reserve their activity competition for classroom and grade concerns, an understandable reservation in light of academic pressures and competition. Gone is the image of the happy-go-lucky-college-student.

The few students who are interested in extracurricular activities such as sports, senate and newspaper are intensely devoted, thus explaining the rejuvenation of various campus activities.

An athlete trains hard and studies when he can; otherwise he flunks out. Likewise for us on the newspaper staff who usually invest four full afternoons plus many extra hours weekly in our work. This is not to make martyrs of the active students, but merely to point out that the students with honor grades are very rarely those who have been most active. A student must be willing to at least venture his QPA if he wants to become involved in something other than studying.

We discern, then, three general categories of students at Juniata. One asserts itself in the classroom, earning good grades and a good reputation for the college among the graduate school rankings. Another category exists almost independently of the college in both academic and extracurricular matters, concerning itself with neither and satisfying itself with "just making it through."

A third category expresses itself through activities, earning passable grades, gaining—in many cases—career experience, and contributing decisively to the image of Juniata College as an undergraduate institution. Indeed, those in sports, those in senate, those in publications all serve as public relations agents to the outside world. The newspaper, especially, is often the only contact that parents, businesses, other schools and prospective students have with the college.

"Choosing An Occupation"

By FREDERICK C. BOYER
President, Class of 1966

The concerns of college students today naturally cover a very large number of subjects. However there are two concerns which I have experienced, and I feel confident my fellow classmates have experienced also. The first of these is the war in Viet Nam and how it effects one's life occupation.

Ever since the step up in war activities in the Far East, the concern with being drafted immediately after graduation from college is a major factor in deciding on the problem of "what to do after college." I have seen in many incidents this past year how my fellow classmates have completely changed their occupational goals in an attempt to avoid the draft. One student, after finding it very difficult to get an acceptance to graduate school felt that the only way to avoid the draft was to apply to seminary. Being accepted to seminary would make him totally draft free. He had thought of this occupation before, but it seemed to me that he was turning to it for the sole purpose of remaining out of the armed forces, and not as an occupation he intended to stick with the remainder of his life.

Another student, who while in his sophomore and junior year was intent on acquiring a position in industry, decided late in his senior year that perhaps he had better attempt to get accepted by some type of graduate school if he was to remain out of the draft. In these incidents it was obvious that the concern over being drafted played a very large role in influencing the decisions of these college students. I fear that the influence is so great that it may be changing the course of some of these people's lives.

The second problem, and the one which I have been most concerned with, is that of choosing one's life occupation, regardless of the draft situation. It is my opinion that being drafted should not influence this decision, for one's occupation must last a life time, and one must be happy while engaged in this occupation. With this in mind then, I have attempted to decide what to do with the rest of my life and have run into many road blocks. In making any decision one must always rely on past experience and know-how before arriving at the conclusion. Most times if past experience and know-how have been helpful, one's decision on the situation will be the correct one. But how should one make the decision which will govern the rest of his life when he has no real tangible past experience or know-how behind him? How is a person to choose his occupation when the only thing he can turn to is the hours he spent in the classroom lectures, labs, and at his desk studying? Perhaps he always had a "pipe dream" as to the occupation which was best suited for his personality, but how can he tell when he has never really had any experience in this occupation?

I realize that everyone is faced with this concern at least once in their lifetime, and I also realize that most times, the person's decision is the correct one. However, one must admit that this concern is on the minds of today's college students—and for most, the concern is a large one.

"Change for the Sake of Progress"

By JAMES R. DONALDSON '67
President, Student Senate

Viet Nam and civil rights, grades and graduate schools, friends and families—these are among the major concerns of American collegians. These concerns, and more, might be summed up in "changing patterns."

Not so very long ago, America wanted isolation; her frontiers were her shores. Today she is the world leader; the frontier is the Iron Curtain and Viet Nam. Civil rights were rarely mentioned a few years ago; no one carried that banner. Now there are freedom marches, demonstrations, and protest movements, and many banners wave.

It used to be that the high school diploma was the educational objective. Later a college degree became the prime requisite. Now it is the graduate degree. The American pattern of friendship is changing, too.

Friends and families have taken on new meanings.

Students have varying degrees of interest in these immediate happenings. Of greater concern to the student are the consequences and implications that these changes today will have on our tomorrow. Ours is an age of change; we accept it; we expect it; and often we even desire it. "Change for the sake of change" is a vanishing concept. It no longer applies. The student's concept might better be stated "change for the sake of progress:" progress toward America's assuming her proper role in international affairs; progress in civil rights and the equality of man; progress in education and academic stimulation; progress in man's understanding of man.

"Change for the sake of progress" is young America's desire, Juniata's students included. The change has been put upon us; our concern is putting the progress in change.

"A Place to Go"

By R. WILL BRANDAU '68
Manager, Salut

The new coffee house, "Salut," answered a social concern for Juniata students. Establishing such a place provided a means and allocation for discussion, performance and enjoyment. The very informal atmosphere and the fact that the students themselves had built the coffee house did much to encourage participation.

Students came to the coffee house sometimes in large numbers sometimes in small numbers, but they came and always seemed to enjoy themselves. Some nights there was entertainment provided either by Juniata students or professors. Other nights there were discussions on almost any issue of interest to the students. At times, students would just talk among themselves. It was evident that Salut was fulfilling the students' desires for something to do socially.

Professors were encouraged to attend the coffee house and many did. The "line" between student and professor seemed to be lifted, for in this atmosphere both could talk to each other more on an equal level. This also provided a very necessary kind of communication.

The students managed and ran the coffee house and did a great job. Coeds waited on tables and worked in the kitchen. The fellows helped with repairs or any cleaning that had to be done. Entertainers volunteered their services and gave Salut not only a coffee house atmosphere but also a night club effect. But mainly, Salut gave Juniata's students a place to go for socializing and entertainment.

Music Sets the Stage

Musical performances dominated the Oller Hall stage in May when four recitals and three concerts were presented. Most familiar to the campus were the New Century Singers who received three standing ovations as they gave their final concert May 19. With the graduation of director W. Stephen Engle, the group will tentatively break up.

James M. Martin '66 of Washington, D. C., presented a piano and trombone recital, assisted on the trumpet by Larry L. Brown '67 of Barnesboro.

Diana L. Ream '66 of New Paris during her May 8 voice recital. The previous week Susan M. Shaffer '66 of Reading also gave a voice recital. Prof. Donald S. Johnson's advanced organ students who gave a recital in May were Cathy A. Hoover '67 of Duncansville; Joyce M. Rosenberger '68 of Huntingdon; Carolyn J. Smiley '67 of Kimberton; and Susan Brunner, a Huntingdon High School senior.

The Baroque Players presented their first public concert May 29. They are Prof. Elmer H. Maas; Dr. Wilfred G. Norris '54; Dr. Evelyn G. Guss; and Dr. Ernest Wagner. Also making its concert debut during May Day weekend was the Jazztet, directed by Ted C. Mantegna '66 of Belleville, N. J. In the group are Gary F. Lindenmuth '67 of Levittown, Thomas H. Severns '67 of Rancocas, N. J., and Donald F. Walker '69 of Huntingdon.

On a Choir Tour — Anything Goes

(The verse and photographs on this spread were the result of a four-day tour of the concert choir to Stewartstown, Pottstown, Elizabethtown, Waynesboro, and Hagerstown, Md., in May).

A tour of choir members is many things
A few hours for concert and practice sings.
But what do they do the rest of the time?
Lots of travel, yes, but on with the rhyme.

On a roof or high in a tree
Was either Dave or one frisby.
A bent parking sign, and a black cowboy hat.
Playing cards and drawing and things like that.

On a concert tour, just anything goes
From a party at Mary's to a stuffed up nose.
Ways to relax and keep limber are done
For these are what makes a tour such fun.

Stops were a must every few miles on the way,
 Meals were great; no ham today?
 Sharing was the rule on ice cream and ruffage,
 But whoever heard of women's suffrage?
 Comics, sun glasses, a celery-chewing choir,
 Harmonizing for hours, and even a fire.

Grease on the suitcases, a leak in the roof,
 A variety of organs, but nary a goof.
 Traveling was slow for the bus was quite old,
 First it was stuffy and then it was cold.
 Excitement arose a few miles on the 'pike,
 When the bus wouldn't go and we hoped for a bike.
 There was plenty of time to see the town hops,
 Even bowling and swimming and the nice barbershop.

Swinging on a tire looked like fun
 But after Susie and Emmy, "it" was done.

Bronson Gets Mickle Award

Nine Athletes Honored

An athlete who never scored any records and hardly played 15 minutes in any game—but who was one of the most popular sports figures—is the 1966 winner of the college's most coveted athletic honor: the Stanford Mickle Award.

James H. (Bronse) Bronson of Phoenixville, aptly deserves the honor because in his four years at Juniata as a member of the basketball team and as a manager and statistician for the football and baseball teams, Bronson was the athlete who "... loved athletics, participated and manifested a wholesome interest in sports, and contributed to the promotion of athletics at Juniata College."

On the basketball court, Bronson's playing moments usually were in the final minutes of the game. But no matter whether Juniata was winning or losing, the lovable Bronson always got an arousing applause—and once a standing ovation.

Because of his congeniality, Bronson took much kidding from his teammates—both on and off the playing field. Yet they respected his efficiency and dependability and knew that he had things under control. He studied the scorebooks like his economics text and could recite any statistic of any Juniata ball player without hesitation.

Although Bronson was graduated in June, he has left a dedicated impact on the remaining teammates, spectators and coaches.

Nine other outstanding athletes received alumni trophies. All were first-time recipients. The winners (with alumni donors) follow:

Football back (Dr. J. Harold Engle '23)—Mario (Bo) Berlanda '67, junior fullback, Willow Grove.

Football line (George L. Weber '40)—Thomas D. Snyder '66, senior co-captain and center, Reading.

Jim Bronson

Basketball (Jack E. Oller '23)—Ted L. Baldwin '66, captain, Chester.

Wrestling (David L. Helsel '61)—Galen P. Dively '66, 123-pounder, Claysburg.

Cross Country (C. Clifford Brown '29)—Richard E. Beard '69, Annville.

Baseball (Charles F. Goodale, Jr. '39)—William J. Kauffman '66, pitcher, Denver.

Track (J. Foster Gehrett '16)—William J. Williams '68, triple, high and broad jumper, West Mifflin.

Tennis (Calvert N. Ellis '23)—Dave L. Newcomer '69, Lititz.

Golf (C. Blair Miller '49ex)—Rick B. Gieg '68, Hollidaysburg.

The spring sports teams finished their most successful season in the past decade by tallying 25 wins and 13 defeats for a .658 mark.

Setting the pace was the baseball team with a 9-2 record, its best showing since 1958. The golfers holed a 8-3 season; the tennis team netted a 5-3 mark; and the trackmen posted a 3-5 log.

Dave Shimp, junior third baseman from Pitman, N. J., and Billy Kauffman, senior righthander from Denver, were the leaders on Coach Prender's ball club. Shimp's season batting average was .424 as he collected 14 hits in 33 times at bat. (Kauffman's achievements are noted in the "Sports Shorts" section).

Bill Germann's golfers boasted their best season since 1960, including an eight-match winning streak.

Huntingdon sophomore Phil Thompson's 24 points was high for his 8-2-1 mark.

Dave Newcomer, freshman from Lititz, led the tennis team with a 6-1 record in singles and a 5-1 in doubles.

Bill Williams, West Mifflin sophomore, broke his own records in the high jump and triple jump and scored a high of 54 points as the top trackman.

The spring sports record:

	Won	Lost	Pct.
Baseball	9	2	.818
Golf	8	3	.727
Tennis	5	3	.625
Track	3	5	.375

CAPTION: Billy Kauffman, leading hurler for the Indians—→

Denny Cowher '67 and Billy Kauffman '66 were listed among the College Division Individual Leaders by the National Collegiate Athletic Bureau. Cowher headed the triples columns for his five three baggers in 11 games for a 0.45 average. Kauffman was 13th in the national listing for his 6-1 record and a 1.04 earned run average . . . Bill Williams '67 broke his own records in the high jump and triple jump. He cleared 6' 3" in the high jump and leaped 43' 5½" in the triple jump on the same day against Bucknell and Lycoming in a triangular meet at Lewisburg . . . Jim Beck-erich's ('67) only hit in one time at bat was a game winning sizzler down the right field line that beat Lock Haven in extra innings at Langdon Field . . . Larry Bieber '67 was re-elected captain of the tennis team for 1967 . . . The won-loss percentage for all games played in the past season put the Indians at the top of the list among Middle Atlantic Conference members. The 9-2 record earned the diamondmen a .818 average for 11 games . . . Two freshmen were among the top athletes who received alumni trophies at the annual sports banquet: Rick Beard of Annville for cross country, and Dave Newcomer of Lititz for tennis . . . John Rolston, freshman shortstop from East Hartford, Conn., smacked a 340-foot homer over the left field fence at Langdon Field April 26, becoming the first Juniata player to clout one beyond the pickets . . .

New Cage, Baseball Coach Named

Russ Trimmer

Russel C. Trimmer, basketball coach at Middletown Area High School for six years, has been named head coach of basketball and baseball and instructor in physical education.

He succeeds Ralph W. Harden as basketball coach and will take over baseball duties from Fred W. Prender, newly appointed director of athletics. Harden resigned to return to high school teaching.

Trimmer is a B.A. graduate of the University of Delaware and coached the freshman team there for one season (1956-57). At Middletown, where he also served as athletic director and teacher, he led his teams to 120 wins, 21 losses and five championships in the Capital Area Conference.

Trimmer was selected from among some 25 candidates for the dual coaching position at Juniata. He becomes the 19th cage coach in the Indians' 62 years of intercollegiate competition.

Before entering Delaware, Trimmer attended York Junior College where he made both the All-State and All-Tournament teams as a back court ace. At Delaware he played two years of varsity ball.

A native of York, he served as a clinician at various summer basketball camps in Pennsylvania. He has done graduate work in educational administration at Penn State.

Junas Takes Over Sports

Lil Junas, assistant director of public information, has taken over sports information at the college, succeeding veteran Bill Engel. (See story next page).

No novice to the sports world, Miss Junas has been an active sports participant and spectator. She has served as a reporter-photographer for The Daily Collegian at Penn State and as an occasional sports reporter while on the news staff of the Hazleton Standard-Speaker. She holds two journalism degrees from Penn State and studied at the Country School of Photography in Vermont.

Prender Heads Athletics

Fred Prender, head coach of football and baseball for the past three years, has assumed duties as director of athletics and chairman of the department of physical education.

He will continue to coach football but has relinquished his baseball job to Russ Trimmer (see story on this page).

A former West Chester State College athlete, Prender came here from Bucknell where he was varsity back-field coach and wrestling coach for four years.

He also was a high school coach for five years and had brief stays in pro baseball and football.

Engel Signs "Thirty" to Press Desk

Leaves 20-Year Record In Sports and Public Information

Bill Engel, sportscaster and scribe for Juniata's athletic events for 20 years, has left the college to become director of foundation appeals at The Pennsylvania State University.

Throughout these years Engel has been in close contact with the alumni as editor of the Bulletin and many other college publications, as author of the weekly football letter, and as speaker at alumni meetings.

Known around the campus as "the voice of Juniata," Engel has been a sports announcer for WHUN since 1952, and a few years ago conducted a weekly 15-minute sports show. He also has served as coordinator of the Scholastic Relays, an annual spring track event for high school athletes.

Coming to Juniata in 1946 as director of publicity and instructor in English, Engel also served as registrar for seven years before being appointed director of public information in 1956. For several years he taught a news writing course and advised the student publications.

Engel's successor in sports information is Lil Junas, his P. I. assistant for the past two years.

The soul and conscience of Juniata's public relations, Engel leaves an indelible record of service to the college through his efforts as a writer, teacher, administrator and adviser. He also held the position of secretary of the faculty for 12 years.

Recognition of Engel's devotion as a journalism teacher was made by A. Robert Smith '50, former editor of The Juniatian, who said that Engel was "without any doubt, one of the three most influential teachers" he had at Juniata. "As a result of attending your one-man school of journalism," he wrote Engel, "I have been happier in my work as a Washington correspondent than in anything I have ever done."

Engel was respected among sports writers throughout the state and nation. Robert Cunningham, in charge of sports publicity for the Middle Atlantic Conference, wrote: "You have produced some of the sprightliest sports copy seen around the conference." Being familiar with the sports publicity of some 37 colleges and universities, Cunningham said: "I don't know of any schools Juniata's size whose sports have been as well publicized as Juniata's has, and I don't know of any larger schools who have been served any better."

Total	$703,720.45

EXCEEDED only by the record-breaking climax year of 1963-64 in the current Development Program total giving to Juniata reached the impressive figure of $703,720.45. Giving to Juniata College reflects a national trend of increasing support to higher education with growth in annual giving supplemented by new and substantial help from foundations and industry.

Annual giving showed unusual strength. This was encouraging because payments have expired to subscriptions primed by the Alumni Phase of the Development Program. Annual giving from Alumni, Associates, Church and Parents of $230,960 represents 33.7% for the broad base support in financial assistance to the College. In this amount Alumni accounted for $140,867.

These hundreds of thousands of dollars for Juniata reflect a concern shared by thousands of donors with boards of directors of foundations, industry and business as well as numerous other constituent groups. The President of the National Alumni Association, Mr. Thomas Knepp '31, Stroudsburg, Pa., expressed his appreciation especially to the many alumni who participated in the Pacesetter Program, a special emphasis this year. The Board of Trustees in their May meeting paid tribute to all who had a part in helping to meet the current needs of the College. This year's achievement is notable in that there were no conspicuously large single contributions, the largest being $25,000.

There were increases this year over last year in all areas except in Gift Annuity Agreements. Church and parents giving held about the same. There were substantial improvements in foundations, business and industry, and bequests. Business and industry benefited by the Juniata Valley campaign under the leadership of Trustee Dale Detwiler. Research grants almost doubled with the increase from $45,041 to $80,810. These monies are being used in all three academic divisions.

Alumni Funds in this country which date back 75 years (Yale) have become commonplace in the last eighteen years. The national leaders in alumni fund giving, the top ten in all categories of giving (amount, number of contributors, average gifts, and percentage participation) average 33 years of age. Juniata's Alumni Fund which has been in and out of these rankings is now in its 27th year. In amount given and number of givers, Juniata cannot compare with national leaders. On average contribution Juniata's $88.04 is high compared with the national average of $44.17. The effectiveness of solicitation of alumni for gifts to national annual funds was 20.7%. Juniata's is 31.3%.

Throughout the 27-year history of reporting for the Alumni Bulletin on the Juniata Alumni Fund a comparison of giving by classes has been featured. The "ten best" have been identified in the categories of amount, number, average gift, and percentage participation.

Topping all classes in amount contributed was Class of 1921 with $31,745.90. The first place among the ten best in average contribution went this year to the Class of 1905. Specially designated gifts helped to boost the total giving in these two classes this year. However, the Class of 1921 has a distinguished record for amount contributed and also in average contribution.

In the important test of participation, the Class of 1896 led with 67% for those classes up to 1919. In the classes since that date, 1925 took first honors with 56 percent. The Class of 1950 with 65 contributors leads again for the seventh consecutive year in number of contributors.

This has been an outstanding year for the establishing of new endowment funds. Restricted projects have included a number of scholarships, a professorship, a lectureship, book, athletic, art and drama funds. The listing of these funds is covered elsewhere in this report.

NEW FUNDS — 1965-66

IN THE CURRENT year, 1965-66, a total of 14 new funds have been established. These include one professorship, five scholarships, four prizes, two library book funds and a special fund for each Art and Drama. The list of these newly established restricted endowments follows:

Texaco Grant Received

Juniata has been selected again as one of the privately financed colleges in the United States to receive an unrestricted grant under the Texaco, Inc., Aid-to-Education program.

The $1,500 grant, awarded for the 1965-66 academic year, has been presented to President Ellis by D. E. Sharpe, district sales representative of Texaco, Inc.

In accepting the check with "much appreciation," Dr. Ellis stated that the money will be used to help pay the costs of equipment and furnishings in the new $2,750,000 Science Center. Approximately $600,000 is needed to meet the total cost of the four-unit complex.

EDITOR'S NOTE: The following list includes the names of all who contributed to the Alumni Fund during the college's fiscal year ending June 30, 1966. In a number of cases individuals received diplomas or degrees in various departments of the Brethren's Normal School and Juniata College. The name is listed in the year in which the most recent award was granted with preference given to bachelor degrees in most cases. Contributors whose names may have been inadvertently omitted or incorrectly listed should notify the alumni office at once.

Brumbaugh Science Center

THE LATEST ADDITION to Juniata's growing campus is the impressive $2,750,000 Brumbaugh Science Center. Alumni Hall with its fine auditorium, spacious library, and two lecture halls is the hub of this fine complex of science buildings. It was made possible by the contributions of many alumni over the past years. The Hall was presented to the College as a part of the dedicatory program of the Science Center held April 14-16.

Throughout the years the alumni have responded generously to the appeals for funds to aid our growing college. As of May 31 the Alumni Fund for 1965-66 totaled more than $121,000; this is about $13,000 more than had been given the previous year. With such an impressive record of alumni giving let us challenge ourselves to continue our support of the college. The Alumni Fund has been and will continue to be an important part of Juniata's financial program.

PROMPTED BY THE THOUGHT that many of Juniata's best students entered here because of their relationship to Alumni, the Church of the Brethren and location in the Juniata Valley, as well as the merits of the college, Dr. Eva R. Hartzler '32, of the Chemistry Department, made a brief study of the relation between Juniata's honor students and her constituencies.

Gathering information for the years 1950-65, Dr. Hartzler found that of 110 honor students during these years, 73 or 66% came from our three main constituencies: Alumni 42; Church of the Brethren 13; and Juniata Valley 18. Since many students represented more than one constituency, priorities were assigned so that each student was counted only once.

The significance of the data is limited since admissions statistics for the current freshman class only were available. However, Dr. Hartzler provided these comparisons using the percentages of admissions for one year:

Students Admitted
Alumni	20%
Church of the Brethren	12%
Juniata Valley	20%
Students With Honors
Alumni	38%
Church of the Brethren	24%
Juniata Valley	34%
Ratio-Honors/Admissions
Alumni	1.9
Church of the Brethren	2.0
Juniata Valley	1.7

Faculty Research

IN EARLY 1966, a Faculty Research Committee was appointed to work closely with the Juniata College Development Office on approaching foundations, corporations and government agencies with proposals for support.

The committee, headed by the Dean of the College, is to interpret programs currently functioning at the college; keep abreast of what faculty members are doing in research and other projects; and determine if foundations, corporate, or government grants may be obtained to support such programs and projects.

Faculty Division Coordinators are:

Dr. Kenneth W. Crosby, Professor of History-
Division of the Humanities

Dr. Duane F. Stroman, Assistant Professor of So-ciology-Division of the Social Sciences

Dr. Charles Spink, Assistant Professor of Chemistry-Division of the Natural Sciences

Ideas and proposals from faculty in each of the academic divisions are presented through the Division Coordinator to H. Gerald Quigg, Director of Development. The Development Office provides research and preparation service to identify the most likely prospect for support.

Several proposals have been prepared by faculty members and presented to foundations for consideration. The Development Office is designed to aid the faculty member with a project he conceived. The project is the key to additional dollars but advanced planning and preparation are essential in finally securing the support.

Foundation Grants

FOUNDATION SUPPORT has been a major philanthropic source for Juniata College in the $5,350,000 program launched in early 1961. Of the total of $4,753,993.04 committed, 42% has come from private or corporate foundations.

These grants may be considered as "Risk Capital" which has been given to finance the many new projects the college has undertaken in the last five years.

Gifts to Strengthen the College

These grants have been made to support a major project and to challenge the college to raise additional dollars from other sources. In the $5,350,000 Long Range Development Program major support has been received from the L. A. Beeghly Foundation of Youngstown, Ohio; the Longwood Foundation of Wilmington, Delaware; the Charities Foundation of the Owens Corning Fiberglas Corporation of Dayton, Ohio, and the Crystal Trust of Wilmington, Delaware. Although such support has been of a challenging nature, it has been possible only because of a strong record of annual giving from alumni.

Gifts for Scholarships

Grants to assist student financial need and to reward academic excellence have become a major part of many foundations' Giving Program. This has been in recognition of the rising numbers of students entering colleges and universities throughout the country.

Most recently Juniata was awarded a Presser Music Scholarship. This grant made by The Theodore H. Presser Foundation of Philadelphia, Pennsylvania is given yearly to an outstanding music student.

Gifts for Experiment and Research

These grants are project oriented and will benefit Juniata and higher education. Juniata has received such grants from the National Science Foundation, the American Chemical Society, and the National Institutes of Health. Such funds enable faculty members to pursue research and development in their fields of speciality. Juniata students are the ultimate beneficiary of these grants.

In discussing Foundation Support, President Calvert N. Ellis stated that, "Undreamed of progress has been made in the last five years only because many foundations and corporations considered Juniata as a wise investment."

Pacesetter 66—A Challenge for Pennsylvania Alumni

THE HEART of a strong Development Program is a continuing sound and productive Alumni Fund. Recognizing this philosophy, your Alumni Association Executive Committee planned for the 1965-66 Alumni Fund Campaign, The Pacesetter 66 Program.

The purpose of Pacesetter was to stimulate early giving to the fund, upgrade the level of contributions and to bring that all-important element of personal contact to the alumnus.

Campaigns were organized during the year in Central Pennsylvania, the greater Philadelphia area, and in Blair County. Volunteer planning committees in each area programed the 2 and 3 day campaigns to be fast and hardhitting with lots of enthusiasm. A typical Pacesetter campaign would kickoff with a buffet supper at campaign headquarters followed by a training session for workers. Pacesetter volunteers would proceed to make calls on alumni in the area for a 2 or 3 day period. A final report session on the last evening, complete with buffet, would wrap up the Pacesetter effort.

Total campaign time in all three areas equaled 7 days which netted commitments of $20,593 from 229 Juniata Alumni.

Pacesetter Area Chairmen were:

Central Pennsylvania

Henry H. Gibbel '57, Lancaster
George G. Pote '55, Harrisburg
Klare S. Sunderland '56, Harrisburg

Greater Philadelphia

Richard L. Moll '60, Philadelphia

Blair County

Charles R. Dillen '50, Altoona

A special thanks to all Pacesetter Volunteers from your Alumni Director.

Partners in Progress

THE PARENTS ASSOCIATION of Juniata College demonstrated commitment and a spirit of partnership with the college Administration during the past academic year.

The association, open to all parents, planned the "best ever" Parents Day; developed a regular parents newsletter, RAPPORT; and contributed $8,110.90 to a dual project: The Focus on Art and Art Series of Cultural Events and the Brumbaugh Science Center.

The association elected John S. Andoniades, Baltimore, Maryland, as President for 1966-67. Andoniades succeeds E. Bruce Bratton of McVeytown, Pennsylvania. His daughter, Sandy, is in the Senior Class.

Newly elected as Vice-President is Dr. Nelson F. Robbins of Haddon Heights, New Jersey. His daughter, Linda, is in the Junior Class.

Elected to serve on the Executive Committee for the coming year are: Senior Class Representatives, Mr. and Mrs. John Andoniades, Baltimore, Maryland; Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Armstrong, Westtown, Pennsylvania; Mr. and Mrs. Russell Fisher, Wilmington, Delaware; Mr. and Mrs. William Knuth, New Cumberland, Pennsylvania; Mr. and Mrs. Walter Schmidt, Wyomissing, Pennsylvania. Junior Class Representatives are: Mr. and Mrs. Roy Brandau, New Holland, Pennsylvania; Mr. and Mrs. Peter Solis-Cohen, Elkins Park, Pennsylvania; Mr. and Mrs. H. Arden Kinsey, Telford, Pennsylvania; Dr. and Mrs. Nelson F. Robbins, Haddon Heights, New Jersey; Mr. and Mrs. William Walters, Wallingford, Pennsylvania. Sophomore Parents Committee are: Mr. and Mrs. Donald Hoover, Duncansville, Pennsylvania; Mr. and Mrs. Warren Newcomer, Lititz, Pennsylvania; Mr. and Mrs. James R. Shilling, Finkstown, Maryland; Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Dundore, Flourtown, Pennsylvania; Mr. and Mrs. John Hustler, Media, Pennsylvania.

Representatives from the Freshman Class will be appointed in the Fall by President Andoniades. The Graduate Parent Representatives to 1966-67 Executive Committee are Mr. and Mrs. E. Bruce Bratton, McVeytown, Pennsylvania.

FACULTY BRIEFCASE:

Number of Appointments Rises

Announcement has been made of 18 new persons (as of July 1) who will assume faculty and administrative positions in September.

Three appointments are reported elsewhere in this Bulletin. They are Dr. Charles W. Schoenherr as Dean of Student Affairs; Barnard C. Taylor II as director of public information; and Russel C. Trimmer as head coach of basketball and baseball. One other appointment, Dr. Richard E. Hunter, to associate professor of English, was reported in the spring Bulletin.

These additions have been announced by Dr. Morley J. Mays, vice-president for academic affairs:

William R. Alexander '66, McConnellsburg, as assistant for institutional research and an instructorial assistant in the department of economics and business administration. He is doing graduate work this summer at the University of Minnesota.

Donald M. Borchert, Princeton, N. J., as assistant professor of religion. A candidate for the Th.D. degree from Princeton Theological Seminary, Borchert holds the Th.M. from Eastern Baptist Theological Seminary; the B.D. from Princeton, and the A.B. from the University of Alberta, Can. He has served as a visiting lecturer in the philosophy of religion and ethics at Eastern Baptist, and as a department assistant and teaching fellow in New Testament at Princeton Seminary.

College Names Dean, P. I. Director

Dr. Charles W. Schoenherr, director of admissions at Wheaton College (Ill.), has been appointed to a newly established position of Dean of Student Affairs.

He will be responsible for the development and administration of the program in student services, extra-curricular activities, and various student groups in relation to current social and institutional issues.

The new Dean also will coordinate the services related to the associated personnel officers, including the Dean of Men, Dean of Women, Director of Financial Aid, Director of Health Services, Coordinator of Student Activities, and Minister to Students.

In addition, Dr. Schoenherr will work with the directors of the various activities, including intercollegiate athletics, in planning and programming; with the Student Activities Council on policy and schedule approval; and with the Coordinator of Student Activities for calendar and coordination. He will serve as adviser to the Student Senate.

A graduate of Wheaton College (B.S. 1950), he has been director of admissions there since 1959. Previously, he served as Wheaton's Dean of Men (1953-56) and was a science teacher in McKinley Junior High School, Racine, Wis. (1950-53).

Dr. Schoenherr earned the M.A. degree in guidance from Northwestern University (1954) and in 1965 received the doctor of education degree from Teachers College, Columbia University. His major area was student personnel administration in higher education.

A native of Oak Park, Ill., Dr. Schoenherr served with the U. S. Marine Corps (1943-46), including 20 months overseas duty with the Fifth Marine Division.

He and his wife have five children, ranging in ages from 15 to three.

Barnard C. Taylor II, graphic designer and sales representative for Grit Publishing Co., Williamsport, began his duties as director of public information August 1, replacing A. William Engel, Jr., who is now director of foundation appeals in the Penn State Foundation.

Taylor will be responsible for the College News Bureau, and for college publications and literature.

He prepared for a graphics career at the Pennsylvania Academy of the Fine Arts, Philadelphia (1932-35) and continued academic studies at Monmouth Junior College, Long Branch, N. J., and the University of Pennsylvania. He also has taken special training in graphics with John Anderson, Pickering Press, Philadelphia, where he served as vice-president of the Graphic Arts Forum. He was graduated from Lycoming College (B.A. 1965).

Before joining Grit 10 years ago, he was a graphic designer and salesman for Campus Publishing Co., and for the National Typesetting Co., both of Philadelphia. Prior to that he served as a reporter on the Long Branch (N. J.) Daily Record and in public relations at Asbury Park, N. J.

Maintaining an interest in art—both as a painter and a lecturer—Taylor taught art history and painting at Monmouth Junior College and was a designer of fabrics and wallpaper for F. Schumacher & Co., N. Y.

He is the co-founder and secretary of the Mid-States Artists and was founder and president (1960-63) of the Greater Williamsport Community Arts Council and Festival.

He has had one-man exhibitions at Bucknell University, Mansfield State College and Lycoming College, and his paintings have been purchased by the Eastern Baptist Seminary, Gov. William Scranton and Corning Community College, among others. His oil painting of the famous Sower Bible hangs in the L. A. Beeghly Library.

Bill Martin '59

Martin Leaves JC

William B. Martin '59, director of alumni relations and placement since 1963, has left the college to become director of industrial placement at Hofstra College in Long Island, N. Y. He also expects to undertake graduate study in personnel work.

Martin was personnel manager of the Sears, Roebuck and Co. store in Abington before returning to Juniata in 1962 as associate alumni secretary and director of placement. He also served as a management trainee and managed three appliance divisions for Sears in York.

He is married to the former Barbara Diven of Mount Union. They have two children.

Peter Trexler, geology; Prof. Kenneth H. Rockwell '57, biology; and Dr. Dale L. Wampler, chemistry. On the right is Marlowe D. Froke of the WPSX staff.

CROSS-CUTTING THE CAMPUS:

Atlanta Mayor Addresses Graduates

The mayor of Atlanta, Ga., described the 1966 commencement for the college's 162 graduates as more significant historically than any previous one in the country's existence.

Ivan Allen, Jr., contrasted the educational, social and economic concerns of the classes of 1866 with those of the present graduates, noting that at no time in history has the demand for ability been more challenging than right now.

President Ellis conferred 72 bachelor of arts degrees and 90 bachelor of science degrees to 84 women and 78 men. Mayor Allen also was honored with a doctor of laws degree.

A man of business acumen and civic leadership, Mayor Allen told the graduates that their "generation is riding the crest of a century of the greatest change for the betterment of human life, for the enhancement of human values that our world has ever experienced. It is the climax of a century of social revolution."

Nine seniors were graduated with honors. Leading her class and graduating summa cum laude was Judith K. Geiser, Bridgewater, Va. Shirley A. Hoover, Portage, and Ann V. Myers, Bridgewater, Va., were graduated magna cum laude. Six seniors received cum laude degrees: Kelly J. Bishop, Tyrone; Susan B. Grimes, New Cumberland; Carol A. Heaton, Roaring Spring; Margaret J. Hockensmith, Johnstown; James H. Lehman, Mannheim; and Susan J. Riddle, Claymont, Del.

At the morning baccalaureate service, Dr. Paul M. Robinson '35 (DD'49) president of Bethany Theological Seminary and a member of the Board of Trustees, pointed to this goal for the graduates: "to be a real person, to find continuing fulfillment, to be complete."

Using a theme from Shakespeare, "Ripeness Is All," Dr. Robinson said that self realization does not always come easily, for in an age of gigantic enterprises there seems to be a kind of conspiracy against the individual.

Man so easily loses his identity as a person in the confusing shuffle of humanity."

He described the drama of understanding of life in three stages: that the world was made for us; that the world is really against us; and that this is the kind of world we must accept and in which each of us must find his own fulfillment.

The traditional musical presentation on the eve of commencement this year was Mozart's "Requiem," performed by 83 singers and 34 instrumentalists with Prof. Bruce A. Hirsch conducting.

Nine seniors shared top awards for "distinguished undergraduate work" announced at Senior Convocation.

Divisional prizes went to Susan R. Grimes, New Cumberland; Carol A. Heaton, Roaring Spring; and Shirley A. Hoover, Portage (Dr. Andrew B. and Maria F. Brumbaugh Science);

Beyond the silhouettes of the faculty is the Class of 1966 during commencement exercises June 5.

Susan M. Shaffer of Reading moments after being crowned May Queen by her prince charming escort, Lewis R. Rarig of Millville.

Judith K. Geiser, Bridgewater, Va. (John R. and Emma G. Wald Humanities); and Carolyn A. Ambler, Churchville (William S. Price Social Studies).

Thomas R. Pheasant, Huntingdon, was the recipient of the Wilbur W. Oaks prize for "interest and potential to be a teacher of medicine and abilities outside the field of medicine."

The Alice G. Blaisdell prize, a new award for a distinguished record in mathematics, was won by Margaret J. Hockensmith, Johnstown.

Stephen T. Gillingham, Oxford, received the Charles M. Rice Accounting Prize; Phyllis J. Dick, Oaks, the Women's Fellowship Award; and Miss Ambler, The Justina Marsteller Langdon Prize.
